

The challenge

Traditional sticky notes and highlighters often cover up important text or images, making it difficult to reference the original content. While transparent sticky notes solve this issue, they're usually made of plastic materials like PP or PET – which aren't biodegradable and contribute to plastic waste. These materials also offer a less pleasant writing experience than paper.

Highlight without hiding – transparent super strong notes from certified paper

Transparent super strong

Our transparent super strong UPM Notes are designed for precise note-taking and marking without obscuring the original content. Made from transparent FSC™-certified paper (FSC C003094), these sticky notes provide a smooth writing experience. Unlike plastic-based alternatives, they offer a more sustainable choice, combining transparency with responsible sourcing and reduced environmental impact. They are ideal for applications where clarity is essential – such as in books, study materials, technical documents, or presentations.

The solvent-free adhesive with super strong adhesion is removable without residue, even from sensitive surfaces, making the transparent UPM Notes a practical and non-intrusive solution for high-lighting key text, adding comments to printed documents, or organizing visual content. Instead of conventional plastic film, the notes are packaged in a plastic-free box made from recycled cardboard, reducing environmental impact without compromising protection or usability. Both the sticky notes and their packaging are recyclable and can easily be disposed of in the paper bin.
